

RH HALL BOOST BESPOKE OPERATION AND SEEK NEW MANAGER

RH Hall's specialist Bespoke Foodservice Solutions division, launched last year, has seen its sales in the first 12 months more than double with the demand for tailored fabrications now forming a valuable part of their business.

Sales Director, Kris Brearley, comments "Following on from the success of our exclusive partnership of supplying Simply Stainless 'off the shelf' fabrication systems to the industry and the acquisition of our own Fabrications business back in 2011, the new approach of combining these two specialist areas to create our bespoke solutions division is proving incredibly popular. No other equipment supplier provides this kind of service – it's a market leading and unique offering in the UK.

The fabrication options available from the division are endless and have been recently enhanced by Simply Stainless expanding their product offering with new 2100mm products and a whole range of new accessories. Considerable investment made within the factory to modernise the fabrications process with numerous new projects and products coming on stream as a result – both bespoke individual units and larger contract ones for national and group accounts, the public sector, kitchen design houses and catering distributors.

Up until now the new division has been headed up by Ben Chrystal who has been on secondment from Simply Stainless in Australia, Ben is due to return back to his home country later this year and now RH Hall is looking to appoint a permanent Bespoke Solutions Manager to expand and build upon the great foundations Ben has put in place in this first year of business.

The role, reporting to Kris Brearley, is a senior position within the business and one which he sees is a really exciting opportunity as it provides a key link between the internal team, the factory and our customers, where a candidate's fabrication, sales, project management and CAD skills can be really fully utilised.
