Press Release - R H Hall Fabrications create Pret a Manger Solution

Following the announcement that Pret a Manger would be introducing a five-point plan to ensure customers have easy access to all allergen information in store, long term supply partner R H Hall were approached to create a solution to assist with rolling out the plan across all UK stores.

Heading up the project for R H Hall Fabrications, Adam Hall – Factory & Bespoke Solutions Manager – worked with Pret to create new product designs to meet their requirements. These new concepts included adapted designs back of house equipment already supplied by R H Hall – a label printer shelf for preparation tables and a wall bracket for use in the hot chef area.

R H Hall's national account, bespoke solutions and fabrications teams worked to provide Pret with a full design and quotation, then moving forward to produce working samples for approval. The designs were optimised to ensure maximum production efficiency and minimum lead times, whilst maintaining the specifications and high standards required by Pret.

Following approval from Pret, these new units entered production, accompanied by additional standard items built by the fabrications team – including recipe card holders and easy to fit add-on electrical sockets. Full roll out to 390 new and existing stores is now in progress – with a short lead time from official order to supply.
